DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is in response to the communication filed on March 22, 2001, which paper has been placed of record in the file.
2. Claims 1-26 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matsuoka et al (hereinafter Matsuoka), U.S. Patent No. 5,956,702.

Regarding to claims 1-26, Matsuoka discloses a system, for use in an information processing apparatus, for breaking a time series into a plurality of discontinuous trend, the system comprising:

input means for inputting times series data...(figure 1, item 1); processing means for generating a plurality of sets of trend...(figure 1, item 3);

output means for outputting the trends for each member...(figure 1, item 4)

Examiner submits that the claimed invention recites an intended use, although Matsuoka fails to discuss the intended use which is for breaking a time series into a plurality of discontinuous trends in a specific way, Matsuoka's computer system is capable of breaking a time series into a plurality of discontinuous trends. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Matsuoka's to include the feature above for the purpose of breaking a time series into a plurality of discontinuous trends in a specific way.

"The recitation of a new intended use for an old product does not make a claim to that old product patentable." In re Schreiber, 44 USPQ2d 1429 (Fed. Cir. 1997).

Conclusion

5. Claims 1-26 are rejected.
